RFCU NEWSLETTER

Check the condition of your account. Situations in life change and how an account was initially set up may not be a reflection of your wishes now. The credit union must abide by the directions of the signature card, so it is important to review your signature card periodically. Are there joint owners on your account, is the account set up with or without rights of survivorship, do you have or need a Payable on Death beneficiary. Each member decides these for themselves, but the signature card needs to reflect those wishes before it is too late to make changes. Come by and check on your account.

You must be signed up for online banking (also free) through the credit union. Both can be done at www.rocketfcu.com, sign-up for online banking and then sign-up for e-statements. Your account information is then available at your fingertips... Come by and check out the convenience and security of RFCU and its friendly staff. Get Your Free Credit Report from one credit bureau or all three at the same time through the Annual Credit Report website, www.annualcreditreport.com. This site provides your credit report (not credit scores). FYI... It is a good idea to stagger the request of the credit reports throughout the year instead of getting them all at once from each credit bureau. This helps you to monitor your report for signs of identity theft or fraud through out the year.
